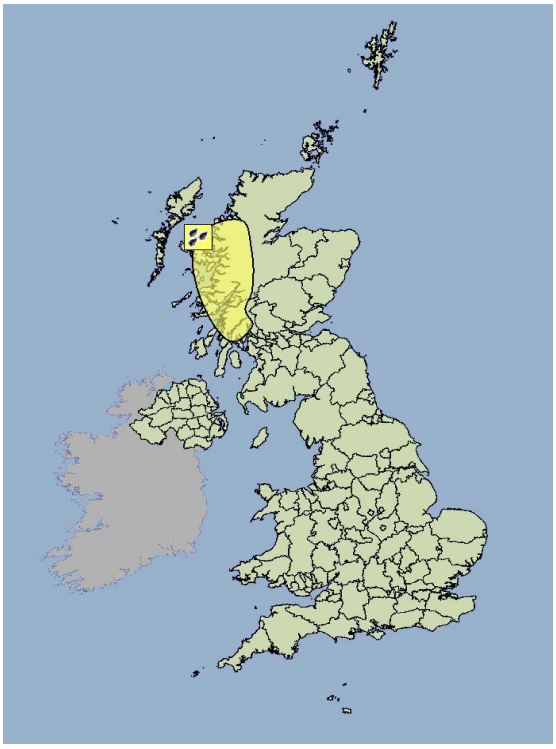
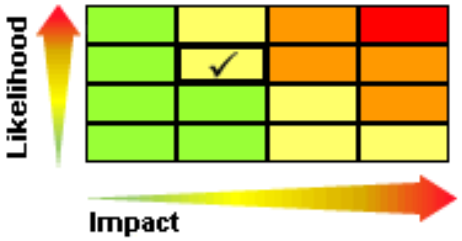
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
A band of rain is likely to bring heavy rain to parts of western Scotland over the weekend, perhaps lasting into Monday. The highest rainfall totals are expected to build up over high ground with 70 to 100 mm possible over the course of the weekend.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Rain

Valid from 00:05 on Sun, 24th Dec 2017 until 23:55 on Sun, 24th Dec 2017

Heavy rain is likely over parts of western Scotland over the weekend. The heaviest and most persistent rain is likely across western Scotland during Sunday.

Spray and flooding on roads will probably make journey times longer. This will probably also cause delays to bus and train services. There is a chance that a few homes and businesses could be flooded. Also, interruptions to power supplies and other services are possible.

This warning has been updated with the northern edge of the warning now further north over Highland.
